NEWS RELEASE FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

3Dsolve Joins Team USfalcon, One of 7 Primes Selected for $19.25 Billion Contract to Support US Army S3 Initiative

Company Brings Simulation Learning Expertise and Proven Military Track Record to Team

Cary, NC, September 7, 2006 — 3Dsolve Inc., The Simulation Learning Company, today announced that it is a member of the USfalcon team, which was awarded a portion of a $19.25 billion contract to support the Strategic Services Sourcing (S3) Initiative sponsored by the Department of the Army's Communications Electronics Life Cycle Management Command (CE LCMC). The $19.25 billion contract will be divided among seven teams over a span of five years (with an additional five year option if exercised).

The mission of CE LCMC is to acquire, field, sustain and integrate superior Command, Control, Communication, Computer, Information, Surveillance and Reconnaissance (C4ISR) systems. 3Dsolve gives the USfalcon team a competitive edge by providing state of the art simulation-based e-learning technology.

3Dsolve will provide simulation-based training to USfalcon customers in the form of Level 3 and 4 Interactive Multimedia Instruction (IMI) and 3D Interactive Electronic Technical Manuals (IETMs). 3Dsolve already has a proven track record of delivering Level 4 IMI for the US military, including CE LCMC. The company is also the only member of the team to deliver Level 4 IMI to pass the Army Training Support Center's (ATSC) stringent validation process, setting the standard for simulation-based training throughout the US Army's Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC).

A value-added small business partner, USfalcon leads a team of large and small businesses offering professional services to CE LCMC in the areas of Engineering, Logistics and Business Operations Support. USfalcon is a certified 8(a) and Service Disabled Veteran Owned (SDVO), Small Disadvantaged Business (SDB).

“We recruited 3Dsolve to our team for their unquestioned technical skills, their impressive list of customers, and their growing reputation as a leader in the military training industry,” said John R. Black, USfalcon vice president and S3 program director.

“We’re honored to be associated with USfalcon and the outstanding team they have assembled,” said Richard Boyd, chief executive officer of 3Dsolve. “Our participation in the S3 program not only enables our existing customers to work with us more easily than ever, but will allow us to bring the benefits of simulation learning to additional commands and their soldiers throughout the US Army.”

In addition to 3Dsolve, the USfalcon team includes a prestigious list of firms: AIPS Engineering, All Points Logistics, Aries Computer Systems, BAE Systems Applied Technologies, Black River Systems Company, Business Plus Corporation, Computech Resources Intl., DN American, Dreamhammer, EMW, Engineering and Professional Services, ENLOGEX, Foster-Miller, Hancock Management, Hi-TEC Systems, InovaTech, Golubov Associates, JRM Technologies, JRT, Laguna Industries, Lear Siegler Services / EG&G, Logistics & Environmental Support Services Corporation (LESCO), Macronetics, mark-dsquared, Microlink Solution Services, Mission1st Group, MTC Technologies, NCI Information Systems, NTSG, and Riptide Software.
