NEWS RELEASE FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

3Dsolve Inc. Named to Military Training Technology's Top 100 List

Growing Simulation Learning Company to Premier Magazine's List of Most Influential Companies in Military Training

Cary, NC, December 18, 2003 — 3Dsolve Inc., The Simulation Learning Company, today announced that it has been named to Military Training Technology's Top 100, the “companies that have made a significant impact in the military training industry this year.”

“More than ever it is paramount that the men and women in our armed forces have the best possible training available in order to successfully accomplish the mission,” said Jordan Fuhr, Editor of Military Training Technology. “The Military Training Technology Top 100 defines the best technology providers who facilitate that training, by using technology to deliver learning to the fingertips of our country's military personnel.”

“3Dsolve was a natural choice for the Top 100,” Mr. Fuhr continued. “Their innovative approach to creating collaborative simulation learning products that enable users to ‘learn by doing’ makes them a company to watch.”

“We're proud that a publication as respected as Military Training Technology considers us a leading vendor in the military training market,” said Richard Boyd, CEO of 3Dsolve. “It's an important validation of our strategy and our success to date. Also, we're proud to be carrying the flag for North Carolina as the only simulation learning vendor in the Research Triangle Park area to be named to the list.”
